Society Insurance Announces Value-Added Partnership with OneEvent Technologies

Policyholders are eligible for discounts on OnePrevent business property protection systems

FOND DU LAC, Wis. (February 26, 2018) — Society Insurance has announced a value-added partnership with OneEvent Technologies to protect policyholders' business properties with discounted rates on OnePrevent smart building systems.

The OnePrevent system is the first of its kind to give building owners and managers the power to protect their assets before danger strikes. As sensors collect data, OnePrevent learns the normal patterns in a business' environment. When something unusual occurs, the system generates an immediate smartphone notification so property owners and managers can respond to problems before they become catastrophic to the business.

"At Society, we know that risk prevention is the key to keeping your business going," said Mike Rosenau, director of risk control at Society Insurance. "OnePrevent systems take this a step further by actually predicting and alerting to issues before they escalate. No business owner wants to deal with an interruption of their operations or small problems that grow into big headaches. With OnePrevent, constant property monitoring truly can lie in the palm of our policyholders' hands."
